Minter Ellison required a fitout of three floors in the Lumley Building with each floor comprising of 1288m². There is a dedicated meeting room floor and two semi-transparent open-plan working floors.

The strategic briefing and development of a design brief was led by DEGW Asia Pacific, in conjunction with Moller Architects in Auckland. The resulting brief was translated into an innovative design that broke down the typical organisational silos typically found in legal practices and created a dynamic working environment.

Selected artworks were integrated into the overall fitout
